Detailed Report:

The department of Fashion and Apparel Design, AIGS organized a alumni talk for the students of 2nd, 4th and 6th semester along with Diploma in ADFT students, on 25th April 2024 at Seminar Hall AIGS. The students were accompanied by Mrs. Ashwini Atul Joshi, HOD Dept. FAD. Ms. Thrishala Yadav, Assit. Prof. Mayuri S, Assit. Prof. Swetha M, Assit. Prof. Samreen Imran, Assit. Prof. Hemavathi R, Assit. Prof.

The students were introduced to the proud Alumni of Department of FAD from the batch of 2018-2021, Mr. Lalith Kartikeyan who is currently working in SAKS INDIA, as Digital Operations Analyst, heading few luxury brands.

Luxury management is the sector that deals with creating, promoting and selling high quality products. This sector caters to a public with very high standards. It deals with products such as jewelry, cars, haute-couture, watches, but also services such as 5-star hotels or first-class travels.

The clients in this sector are highly demanding and only accept the best. They want more than a product. They expect to live a unique experience when dealing with brands. If you want to work in this sector, you will need to be able to provide such an experience. You need to be innovative and to always offer something new and exceptional.

In luxury, brands must have a story, values, and above all an image of excellence. Managers in this sector have to maintain this image, not only with clients, but also with their coworkers. For the company to succeed, all employees must have its values in mind.

It's a sector that evolves with its time: digital marketing is becoming more and more prominent. Websites, search engines, social media change the way brands tell their story and sell their products. With the rise of markets such as China, newcomers in the sector will face new exciting challenges. Starting your studies in this domain will help you discover the new reality of luxury management!

Luxury brand management courses are available at various levels of schooling. You may either study luxury brand management immediately after graduating from high school or dabble in it after completing your undergraduate degree.

The expansion of the firm and the attractive employment opportunities have consistently drawn more people to the luxury industry. Working with elite firms with offices worldwide and partnering with prominent celebrities and well-known names may provide you with worldwide exposure.

There many luxury brand management courses offered at various levels.

France is synonymous with luxury, and it's no surprise considering that it's the origin of some of the world's most famous companies, like Hermès, Cartier, and Novotel. These are some of the top French upmarket and premium companies in the jewelry, fashion accessories, and hospitality industries.

The United Kingdom is a good choice for students interested in working in large-scale enterprises. Students chose the UK for its environment, education at globally recognized universities, and cultural immersion. Many institutions in the United Kingdom offer luxury management and fashion retail degrees

Germany is an excellent choice for students wishing to begin or continue their education in management. Many luxury automobiles are made and designed in Germany, the country's public institutions give education with minimal tuition fees

CAREER:

1. Luxury Brand Manager: You will maintain regular communication with all departments, and your major goal will be to build an efficient marketing plan to acquire a certain customer. Essentially, your objective will be to generate a message and an image for the specific business you're promoting that is immediately recognized and sticks with the audience.

2. A product management position in the fashion and luxury goods business will place you in charge of product planning and execution at all levels. The first stage is to do market research to determine what the client desires. Whether you work for clothes, fashion accessories, or footwear brands, you will be responsible for overseeing the whole development and production process of the company's products and ensuring that they fulfill the needs of the customers.

3. Fashion Retail Buyer

A retail buyer performs precisely what the term implies: you will be in charge of choosing what type of things to sell at a fashion or luxury goods store. You must ensure that the appropriate goods (clothes, shoes, accessories, etc.) are available in stores at the appropriate time and that there are enough pieces to meet client demand.

4. Fashion PR Specialist

The work of a public relations professional in the fashion sector is similar to that of any other industry, but you will have the added benefit of working with internationally recognized celebrities such as models, actresses, and singers. You will get the opportunity to attend fashion shows, red carpet events, award ceremonies, and other such events.

Introduction to the topic

Outcomes:

1. Enhanced understanding of luxury brand principles and their application in real-world scenarios.
2. Ability to analyse and interpret luxury market trends, consumer behaviour, and competitor strategies.
3. Proficiency in developing comprehensive luxury brand strategies, including positioning, differentiation, and communication.
4. Improved skills in crafting compelling brand narratives and experiences to engage affluent consumers.
5. Knowledge of effective techniques for managing brand equity, perception, and prestige.

Conclusion:

In conclusion, alumni interaction session on Luxury Brand Management has provided invaluable insights into the intricate world of luxury branding. Through in-depth discussions, case studies, and practical exercises, we have explored the fundamental principles and advanced strategies that underpin the success of prestigious brands. We have delved into the nuances of consumer psychology, market dynamics, and brand storytelling, equipping ourselves with the knowledge and skills necessary to navigate the complexities of the luxury industry. As we depart from this session, let us carry forward the lessons learned, leveraging our newfound understanding to craft compelling narratives, deliver exceptional experiences, and uphold the essence of luxury in an ever-evolving marketplace. With a commitment to excellence, creativity, and integrity, we are poised to make a meaningful impact in the realm of luxury brand management.

The Acharya Institute of Graduate Studies hosted its 14th Annual Alumni Meet, on 11 May 2024. The program began with a welcome dance. Dr. Gurunath Rao Vaidya, Principal, Dr. Gururaj S. Dean of Academics, and Alumni inaugurated the program by watering plant.

The Principal stressed on the importance of creating bond between old and current students in his inaugural speech. He opined that alumni should contribute to their college through knowledge sharing and supporting career opportunities to their juniors. The alumni can also hold professional networking events and conduct corporate-academic interaction sessions.

A variety of cultural performances including dance, songs, and other fun activities by the alumni and present students brightened the gathering. The graduates shared their memories of their time as students on campus as well as their experiences working in the office now. They also shared about their friendships and the bonds they had with their professors.

Ms. Premavathi M, Alumni Coordinator oriented the alumni about the alumni web portal and its features; registration into the portal, how to be a mentor, endowment funds, and many more. She shed light on the goals of the Acharya Alumni Association trust, including how it can create a cohesive and encouraging environment for graduates. Around a hundred alumni participated in the meeting, and various department HoDs, faculty members, and students witnessed the event. The event ended with a group photo session of the alumni and the faculty members.

One of the alumni watered the sapling as part of the inauguration
